

Day and evening program Baublies Youth Cup 2023

Saturday, 05.08.2023:

Attention: Due to the unfavorable weather conditions, this program item will be postponed to Friday, August 11. In the context of our anniversary celebration and with better weather conditions, it will surely come to better advantage.

After the games, relax and enjoy a cocktail party with lounge music. Wine, spirits and culinary are Ilka Vollmer's specialties.

Since 2019, she has been working as a department manager for wine, spirits and culinary in a wholesale company. From March 2021 to June 2022, she trained part-time as a sommelier, including WSET Level 3, and has been an official IHK sommelier since June 2022. She also won second place in the "Maximin" sommelier award from the Maximin Grünhaus winery of the von Schubert family in March 2022.

Tonight she mixes us cool cocktails, non-alcoholic drinks in all variations are of course part of it, as well as small snacks from our fine kitchen. So everything is set for a successful start to a tournament week with top-class tennis on all the facilities, sophisticated entertainment and all-day catering on the main facility in Renningen by the Cooking studio Peter Bissinger.

Sunday, 06.08.2023

Around 2 p.m., we welcome Mischa Zverev to the main facility. The scheduled program:

Participants: Mischa Zverev, Sebastian Sachs, Jonas Hoffmann and Yannik Maden. Accompanying music: Linda Kyei Band (see also 09.08.)

20:00 Farewell and social gathering.

Day and evening program Baublies Youth Cup 2023

Tobias Faißt grew up in Renningen and initially studied electrical engineering in Stuttgart after graduating from high school. However, his enthusiasm for sports quickly led him to switch to studying sports journalism in Tübingen. Through a traineeship at Schwäbischer Verlag, he was able to gain experience at Schwäbische Zeitung and at the private local station Regio TV Stuttgart, to which he returned as an editor after completing his traineeship. Through a qualification program, he acquired additional skills in all kinds of moderation areas.

At Regio TV Stuttgart, the 29-year-old currently hosts the news magazine "Journal," the format "Stadtgespräch Stuttgart," and the business magazine "M3," and produces daily reports on state political topics and issues in the Stuttgart region for the news magazine. Until 2021, Faißt was active as a soccer referee in games up to the Verbandsliga throughout the state. In his free time, the presenter enjoys sports and traveling to get to know other perspectives on the world.

Mischa Zverev was born in Moscow on August 22, 1987. The family moved to Hamburg when he was four years old. Since early youth he was coached by his father Alexander Sverev, who played for the Soviet Union in the Davis Cup from 1979 and reached 175th place in the world singles rankings in 1985. His mother Irina Svereva, née Fateyeva, was also a professional player and reached 380th place in the world rankings in her career in 1993. Mischa and his younger brother Alexander Zverev started their club careers in the youth of the Uhlenhorster HC. In 2004 Mischa Zverev was ranked 3rd in the youth world rankings. Mischa Zverev is left-handed and plays mostly serve and volley. His highest world ranking in singles was 25th in July 2017, in doubles 44th in June 2009.

For Mischa Zverev, coach and manager of his brother Sascha as well as a well-known tennis commentator, it is an important concern to bring professional tennis to smaller clubs. After deducting the costs, the proceeds generated by the event (e.g. via the raffle, service challenge, etc.) will go to the Alexander Zverev Foundation for children suffering from diabetes.

Mischa Zverev never took part in the Jugend Cup himself, but his brother Alexander (Sascha) Zverev did. In 2010 he lost in the semi-finals of the U14 to the Russian Alexandr Chepelev, who was seeded first. Incidentally, that was the year in which Belinda Bencic, who was only 13 years old, won the U16 competition at the tournament, which was still called the Mercedes Jugend Cup at the time, and Maximilian Marterer earned himself a wildcard for qualifying for the 2011 MercedesCup at Weissenhof.

Sebastian Sachs, born 18.02.1992 in Ditzingen, has participated in the Youth Cup a total of 4 times. After graduating from high school, he played college tennis in the USA at Oklahoma State University and later joined the Futures Tour. Along the way, he played in the regional league for TEC Waldau. His highest ranking in men's singles was 1052nd in November 2012.

While the 30-year-old enjoyed a short career as a player, he was far more successful as a coach: longtime hitting partner of the FED Cup team, coach of Annika Beck, Julia Görges, Belinda Bencic and Emma Raducanu, and hitting partner of Victoria Azarenka- a two-time major winner who was previously ranked number one in the world.

He guided Julia Görges to the semifinals of Wimbledon in 2018 and helped her reach the world's top 10 and win the Luxembourg Open for the first time in her career that same year. Despite his success with Görges, Sachs achieved his most impressive feat as coach of Belinda Bencic, whom he guided to gold at the 2020 Olympics; Bencic later rose into the world's top 10.

Jonas Hartmann is a teacher at the Otto-Hahn-Gymnasium in Ludwigsburg, where he teaches physical education, history and social studies.

The Otto Hahn Gymnasium in Ludwigsburg has been a partner school of the Olympic Training Center since 1995. It supports the compatibility of academic success and top athletic performance as well as overall personality development with a comprehensive concept geared to the needs of young top athletes. This support for athletes from numerous sports is made possible by the great commitment and experience of many colleagues at OHG with an affinity for competitive sports, as well as by close cooperation with the Stuttgart Olympic Training Center, the sports associations, and the Ministry of Education, Youth, and Sports.

In addition, Jonas Hartmann is a DTB A-trainer, WTB teacher trainer and responsible for the coordination of schools and competitive sports on behalf of WTB/DTB. In this respect, he is very familiar with school models for the compatibility of school and sport.

Yannick Maden, born 28.10.1989 in Stuttgart, played hardly any tournaments on the junior tour. He has participated in the Youth Cup 1 time: in 2003 he made it to the semifinals in the U14 singles and the round of 16 in the U16 doubles.

From 2009 to 2013, he studied at Clemson University in the state of South Carolina and played for the Tigers' college tennis team in the Atlantic Coast Conference. He graduated with a bachelor's degree in financial management in 2013. As of 2014, he focused entirely on his tennis career. His highest ranking in the world tennis rankings was 97th in June 2019.

In the Bundesliga, Maden played until 2021 for TEC Waldau Stuttgart, with whom he was promoted to the 2nd Bundesliga in 2014. In 2021, he moved to TC Bredeney Essen in the 1st Bundesliga.

As a second mainstay alongside tennis, Yannick and his partner Maximilian Scholl have dedicated themselves to the currently booming future trend sport of padel tennis. Since 2022, they have been operating 3 outdoor padel courts in Stuttgart at the TSV Jahn Büsnau facility. So the foundations for further success have already been laid.

At 8:00 p.m. Jonas Gavriil from Pforzheim will be our guest with his band and we can look forward to English-language songs with earworm potential and a varied stage show. In the media he is described as one of the most exciting discoveries of the current singer-songwriter scene.

When a young musician names Fools Garden, Oasis, James Blunt and the Beatles as influences, it's clear: there's neither musical one-size-fits-all here nor New German Befindlichkeitsgedusel. Jonas Gavriil's passion is songwriting of the classical school, with catchy melodies and sophisticated arrangements. With his penchant for the golden era of pop, the Pforzheim native seems both out of time and cutting-edge at the same time.

Day and evening program Baublies Youth Cup 2023

Jonas Gavriil's clever songwriting is also due to the mentoring of Fools Garden founders Peter Freudenthaler and Volker Hinkel. Hinkel's synthesizer can be heard on Jonas' song "Hollow." The single "How it goes" graces more than 100 hot Spotify playlists, and so Jonas Gavriil can be heard in Berlin, Hamburg and around the world.

Unlike what is common today, Jonas Gavriil's career did not start on the internet, but on the stages of his home in Baden. Jonas loves playing with the audience and lets the spark fly from the first song. Whether solo with guitar and piano or with a band, a Jonas Gavriil concert is enormously varied: from rock to country and Latino borrowings to piano ballads, the spectrum of the blondhead with the youthful charisma ranges. "I want to touch my audience and celebrate the here and now with them".

At 7:30 p.m., we expect to welcome Stefan Siller, who hosted the cult show "Leute" on Südfunk and SWR 1 for more than 30 years, to a night talk evening.

After graduating from the Friedrichs-Gymnasium in Herford, Siller completed a traineeship at the Neue Westfälische. He then studied politics and journalism in Berlin. He worked as a presenter and author for Sender Freies Berlin. In 1978, Siller joined what was then Süddeutscher Rundfunk in Stuttgart.

For the then radio station SDR 3, Siller developed and hosted the listener hit show Top Tausend X (1989) together with Thomas Schmidt. From 1988 to 2015, Siller was editor and host of the talk show Leute, which he alternated with Wolfgang Heim. Leute ran on SDR 3 until 1998, and since the merger of Süddeutscher Rundfunk and Südwestfunk, it can be heard in its traditional slot on Mondays through Fridays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. on the radio program SWR1 Baden-Württemberg. In Leute, both celebrities and people unknown to the general public are interviewed.

Siller will end his work at SWR at the end of 2015. In his last broadcast on December 23, he was interviewed by his colleague Wolfgang Heim. His successor on the Leute team is Nicole Köster.

Kim Renkema photo: Allianz MTV Stuttgart, Jens Körner

As a talk guest, we welcome Kim Renkema, team manager of the currently most successful sport in Stuttgart, the 2023 German champion and the also internationally extremely successful women's volleyball team Allianz MTV Stuttgart.

Her career began indoors with Olhaco Hoogeveen. She then played for various clubs and the senior national team in the Netherlands. In 2010, the outside attacker moved to the German Bundesliga team Smart Allianz Stuttgart. There she won the DVV Cup in 2011.

In 2012, Renkema went to Italy to Riso Scotti Volley Pavia. In 2014, she returned to Allianz MTV Stuttgart, with whom she again won the German Cup in 2015. On March 14, 2017, Renkema ended her active volleyball career and moved to the management of Allianz MTV Stuttgart as sports director.

Erwin Staudt, who lives in Leonberg-Silberberg, was an IBMer for 30 years and former Chairman of the Management Board of IBM Deutschland GmbH. From 2003 to 2011, he was president of VfB Stuttgart 1893 e.V. At the end of his first term, VfB became German champions in 2007. During his second term, he realized the conversion of the Mercedes-Benz Arena into a football-only arena through talks with Mercedes-Benz and the city of Stuttgart - a project that his predecessors had failed at. He has been honorary president of VfB Stuttgart since 2011.

Erwin Staudt, who works internationally as a top manager, learned the business from the bottom up. As a marketing and sales professional, he always recognized trends in advance, saw opportunities and made sure his team achieved its goals. Today, business strategist Erwin Staudt is a member of the supervisory and advisory boards of several companies.

With Erwin Staudt, we experience a speaker who has a special gift for lecturing on the dynamic relationship between sports and success. He has been a guest of Stefan Siller on several occasions and we can already look forward to an entertaining discussion.

Kim BUI Kim BUI started gymnastics at the age of four in Tübingen. Her home club is TSG Tübingen. Bui trained at the Kunst-Turn-Forum Stuttgart, a federal base for artistic gymnastics. Her coach was Tamara Khokhlova. In the national league, she gymnastics for Turn-Team Stuttgart, and since 2011 for MTV Stuttgart.

The floor specialist first attracted attention in 2004 when she placed fifth in a World Cup (DTB Cup). In 2005, Bui took part in world championships for the first time. At the German Championships in the same year, she placed third on uneven bars, vault and floor exercise and fourth in the all-around.

2009 was Bui's most successful year to date: she finished on the podium in all five competitions at the German Championships. She became German champion in the all-around, on floor and vault, finished second on uneven bars and third on beam. She also finished the 2009 World Championships as the best German (23rd in the all-around) and took her first World Cup win on uneven bars at the DTB Cup in Stuttgart's

Porsche Arena. From 2009 to 2011, she was the DTB's active spokesperson.

At the 2021 European Championships, she finished seventh in the all-around. She finished sixth in the individual final in floor exercise. In 2021, she won her first title on uneven bars at the German Gymnastics Championships. She was nominated for the 2021 Summer Olympics in Tokyo in mid-June 2021 after finishing fourth in the all-around at the second Olympic qualifier. She finished 17th in the all-around final at the Olympics.

In early August 2022, Bui declared that she would retire from competitive sports after the 2022 European Championships in the same month. At these, she won the bronze medal with the team. She finished fifth in the European Championships individual uneven bars competition. Since then, she has been involved in raising awareness about eating disorders, which affected her when she was an athlete. She addressed her former bulimia in her book "Kim Bui. 45 Seconds." and in the TV documentary "Hungering for Gold" by Bavarian Radio.

The talk shows will be musically complemented by the Linda Kyei Band, a duo that can currently be seen regularly as a show band on SWR television's "good entertainment" with Pierre M. Krause.

Warm sounds and clear song structures that nevertheless offer room for jazz improvisations, electronically enriched beats and a voice that sounds soft and experimental at the same time: that's the Linda Kyei Band! With their PopularElectronicJazz they inspire friends of jazz as well as those of electronic sounds.

Even though jazz from America had to take the long way across the Atlantic, and today we still look up first to the metropolises of the time such as New York or Berlin when it comes to the glamorous 1920s and 30s, Stuttgart was just as important a liberal center of entertainment, innovation and joie de vivre in those days.

Let yourself be carried away into the carefree world of cafés, vaudevilles and jazz clubs, and enjoy the lifestyle of swing, the Charleston, and long nights.

Friday, 11.08.2023

Selected dishes of our chef Peter Bissinger, exquisite wines of the Teamwerk Esslingen and discreet lounge music prepare the framework for our anniversary evening. Not only club members, but also their friends, acquaintances and interested guests from our region are welcome. The start is planned after the last games, or award ceremonies, probably from 19:00 clock.

In keeping with this evening, our chef has come up with something very special: for a price of € 49 / person, he offers a complete 3-course surprise menu including all drinks: to start with a glass of sparkling wine, various wines with an accompanying tasting, coffee, juices and water. For the planning of the desired number of menus, of course, a timely reservation is desired.

After the menu there will be a raffle: Between 50 and 100 high-quality Head tennis articles will be raffled off, ranging from small giveaways (key rings, sweatbands, grip bands) to larger prizes (caps, socks, T-shirts, jackets, polos, shoes) to a few main prizes (rackets, bags). The absolute main prize will be a signed Sascha Zverev item, either a signed racket or a complete and signed Grand Slam outfit. Possibly there will also be tennis articles from Adidas, from our main sponsor Baublies, accommodation vouchers from the Tannenhof Hotel or other goodies from Zverev's sponsors and partners.

We are already looking forward to a nice, relaxed summer evening with our guests.

Saturday, 12.08.2023:

We will probably start the day with a white sausage breakfast and end it with a cozy get-together in the catering area after the award ceremonies.

So for one week, our club members and guests will have the opportunity to experience excellent sports, as well as celebrities and artists from our region, with free admission. And numerous spectators would be the best recognition for the players, the artists and the organizing clubs. Therefore we would be very pleased about your visit.
